Reading 1 – Treason

Will Montague is a page to Prince Edward, son of King Henry VIII. But these are dangerous times and as the king's favourite, Will gains many enemies at Court. They soon convince the king that Will's father has committed treason and must be thrown into prison. Will is forced to flee Hampton Court and go into hiding in the backstreets of Tudor London.

Lost and in mortal danger, Will is rescued by a poor boy, Nick Drew. Together they brave imprisonment and death as they embark on a great adventure to set Will's father free.
